Dying is a taboo topic not often discussed

In our daily life. Let's put an end to it.

Death is really part of life. From a Buddhist Perspective death is an extension of life. It is the beginning of another life. There is a saying if we know how to live we will know how to die.

How should we live in a way that prepares us to face this imminent reality? In living life we will discuss how our intentions, thoughts and actions influence our karma and eventually the place of our next existence.
